On the night of the 3d of July last, about 11 o'clock, officer Campbell, while attempting to arrest a boy in Greenwich street, a dangerous locality in that city, was, with a brother officer, attacked by a crowd, and Campbell received a blow in his breast from a stone, which almost disabled him. It gives satisfaction to the New York public-does something towards restoring the moral accordancy of the officers of the peace, and abould encourage them to still greater effi-ciency in checking the numerous gauge of ruffians abounding in the lower wards and elsewhere on the margin of that city.

The question arises, are the police officers aufficiently protested in the discharge of their duty! Their rosition is by no means an ex-

Since the very mature of an advertusement is to secure more business and greater re-urns, it would seem as if the above questions was practically unnecessary, yet our experi-ence thus far proves the opposite. There is a large class of advertisers who, when dull times approach, instead of exercising the usual sagacity exhibited at other seaso and then sit down to lament their sad fate and wonder why "so little is going on." We have often endeavored to expose the fal-We have often endeavored to expose the fal-acy of such a course, and point out its ruin-ous consequences, yet, neither the example of the wise and prudent who heed not dull ines, and consequently are not additude with hem like others, nor their own ill success has as yet convinced them of their error. has as yet convinced them of their error.

It may be laid down as an indisputable fact, that if in good times it is necessary to advertise to secure business, in dull times it is all the more so. And why? Simply because the fact of advert ising at all is proof conclusive that such a course will and does bring business; hence the more one patrontess the press the greater will be ble so. ises the press the greater will be his rev-enne, and the more certain his success. Many men are dependent entirely upon adrettlaing for success. Suppose they were to stuse to advertise at all? "Dull times" rould be the inevitable result, and no one would wonder at their fallure.

Of course some seasons of the year ar tter adapted to particular classes of adve tising than others, yet the general advertises can never afford to withdraw himself from can never amora to window window miniment from judicious one never will. Persistency and energy are always requisite, and their fruits can be gathered by no other incentives, much less by inaction and immentation. If, then, you find that business is dull, or profits are growing beautifully less, instead of thrusting all the blame upon the poor public look closely to see if it is not rather in your own self, and if convinced of this area, as you self, and if convinced of this, act as you would at any other time, and obviate the

The Income Tax Agitation.

The lacome tax law expires by limitation in 1870. The tax on the revenue for the current year is collected in the next. Two years age Congress repealed the taxes on manufactures, that yielded a revenue of $170,000,000 annually. The revenue has not failed in consequence, as was predicted, and it is now urged that the income tax should be repealed, or confined to revenue from corporation dividends. As the increase in revenue from other sources has allowed an annual reduction in the objects of taxation, it is claimed that the exemption may be doubted so as not to apply to expenditures necessary for the comforts of life. The agitation is growing in such a way and with such a volume that it is pretty sure to be heard from at the next session of Congress. And beyond that, the revelations that have been made of evasions of the law are causing a doubt friendly to the repeal.

The tax has an interesting history. It appears first in the act of August, 1881, collecting three per cent. from incomes over $800 after January, 1862; one and a half

A Remarkable School-Mistress.

Dr. N. T. True, school superintendent of Oxford county, Maine, has inade a special report concerning a school-mistress in thai state and her work. Her name is Vestal Howard, and she toaches in the town of Bethel. She is first five years old, and has taught seventy terms of private and public school. Yet, says Dr. True, she is far is advance of most young teachers, instead of being antiquated. The following are artracts from the account of the school:

"She commenced her afternoon session by saying that she did not think it best to set the children immediately to work upon their studies, because they had been at their play and were not in the best condition for close application. She therefore took a second Frogressive Reader and rend a story as badly as she could and let them correct her faults. She then read it correctly, and as one would talk, and all eyes were fixed on her. She then cailed a register of scholars by numbers, who answered by their names and agres. Among them was a Windeld Scott, General Fremont, and other prominent names; and as they were aumounced she had a word to say about their history, without scarcely scopping her register. She then made them all take their books out of their seals together, without noise. No slates were to hit the deaks, or books to be shuffled. She selects a captain for each of the smaller classes, who steps out and calls the class out by numbers. Books are all held allike. This makes them executive scholars.

"In reading, small children repeat the same word till they can command it in the sentence, and then they read it in concert. In spelling they all fold their, arms, with the book under the left arm. Sometimes she applies the words and they prondumed them. This was a fine exercise. She made them pronounce correctly, cow, how, riew, bow, row. They made a graceful bow in leaving for their sents.
